IN THIS ISSUE:

- Meeting in Spain
- Experts wanted!
- The Competence Framework and the Online Assessment Tool

DIGISETS partners met in Valencia in September where they have spent two days at I-Box Create premises.

The face-to-face encounter was mainly dedicated to:

- Project Management
- Internal and External Communication Activities
- The Competence Framework Development
- The Specification Requirements of the Online Assessment Tool and its first stage of development
- The Impact and Quality management of the project.

The interim report was also thoroughly discussed and a calendar for the next semester pending activities was agreed upon. The main goal of the meeting was to assign clear and specific tasks to each partner to finalise the first expected results.

Real encounters help boost cohesion, communication and understanding especially when an international partnership deals with delicate topics such as the definition of competencies at a specific EQF level and within a contextual labour market sector.

We are constantly working to achieve the best results. Keep following us on our social media and website!

In order to create a diverse and heterogeneous group of external experts, we are now looking for new members who will provide their professional views on the achieved results. The main fields of interest are:

- Digital Competences in Tourism and Retail,
- Tourism and Retail sectors' main technological and digital needs,
- Human Resources Management for the Retail and Tourism sectors,
- Vocational Education and Training.

Would you like to join the discussion? Then contact us through this form <https://digisets.eu/contact/>, one of our project managers will soon reply to your query.

WHAT'S GOING ON

THE COMPETENCE FRAMEWORK AND THE ONLINE ASSESSMENT TOOL

What are we working on currently?

The work on the second intellectual output has been kicked off and the first version of the tool has been presented to the partners during the meeting in Valencia. The platform has been designed following partners specifications and is currently undergoing peer review.

The online assessment tool reflects the Digital Competence Framework methodology. It has been designed to suit both employers and employees or jobseekers of the tourism and retail sectors. The tool will also have a class mode that will give trainers the chance to assess a group of students belonging to the same class. This will give the chance to trainers to have a global understanding of the class digital competence and better align the classes to the training needs of the students.
